

Minibeasts!

Gardens are starting to come alive. I have seen plenty of ants, woodlice, bumblebees and a few butterflies. Why don't you have fun with colour and make some minibeasts of your own? First of all have a good look in your gardens, find some insects and look closely at their shape, because they are all different. So are their colours. Lots fly but many just creep or crawl. Study how they move. Then have fun making, using some of the ideas below.
