

Hi Emerald Class,

Here we are at the start of term 6, it's not what any of us expected! We will be welcoming some of you back to school this week - it won't be quite the same as usual but it'll be great to see you again. Those of you who aren't coming back, please stay in touch via email

Here is a message from Mrs Evans' sister about this weeks' Homeschool History:

This week's episode is about the battle of Hastings. There's a really famous illustration of the plot twists of 1066 - it's called the Bayeux tapestry and is like a massive comic strip of the whole story. However, the nuns who made it weren't actually there so they got some bits wrong. Your challenge is to look up pictures from the Bayeux Tapestry online and do a new, more accurate, drawing of one of the things that happened in the tapestry's style. Will it be Harold defeating big, scary Harold Hadrada by catching him sunbathing? Or William dealing with all the horse poo? Or Harold's gory death? Maybe William's Christmas coronation that went horribly wrong!

English: This week, your work will be very similar to the children in school. We will be following lessons (Talk 4 Writing) based on The City of Silence. Each day has at least one activity for you to complete. It will run over several weeks.

Maths:

We have got different work for you for this term. This will be similar work to the work that the children in school will be doing. There is a document per day - it'll seem like a lot of work, but rest assured that it's not 😊. For each day, there are a couple of help pages then there is differentiated ('mild' is easier and 'hot' is harder). There is also an investigation challenge for you to do.

You will not need to print everything off, probably just the 'warm' or 'hot' sheet.

Topic: Transition - report comment

For to have a report comment, you will have to either type onto the documents in the week 2 folder and email it to Mrs Cleaves or hand write in and pop it into school. The prompt sheet (as we would normally use) is on the website.

PE: In school we will be completing personal challenge activities. You can record your scores on the score card and chart your progress over the coming weeks. The Powerpoint explains how to complete the challenge

We would love to see any work or photos that you have, and we can share them too if you would like us to.

Look after yourselves and each other,

Mrs Evans and Mrs Bennett
